Help Center Auto Shooter + Inventory Management This game is for people that enjoy the high octane onslaught of autoshooters, but would like more involved gameplay mechanics and a higher skill ceiling. In Zombie Survivors: Inventory Apocalypse, you must show that you have what it takes to survive the endless waves of enemies closing in, while periodically managing your backpack and weapons belt to keep up as enemy difficulty increases over time. Items that you gather are stored in your backpack where they can be picked up, rotated and placed to maximize your space. Items and Upgrades What your character can do is decided by what items you have and the upgrades that you choose. Items are gathered either from scavenging wrecked cars or dropped by killed enemies. These items vary in utility from "consumable" healing items, items that provide passive buffs and weapon items. While passive items will have an effect from inside your backpack, weapon items must be placed in belt slots to be used. Find the balance of item management in the different sections of your inventory while also avoiding dead-ends and masses of zombies. Upgrades are another way to get stronger. Similar to the leveling up mechanics found in other autoshooters, you gain experience overtime by killing enemies. These experience points can be spent on different upgrades that can decide what kind of run you will have. Upgrades include: increasing your line of sight, gaining a compass that points to car wrecks, upgrading inventory capacity and others. While the items you collect are completely up to chance, you can account for that variability by picking upgrades that have synergy with you load-out. Procedurally Generated Arena Every run is different, not only with the items you get but with the area you play in. Obstacles, lootable wrecks and enemy locations are all generated each round (with the exception of one wreck at the beginning). There is also no exploration limit in any given direction, making builds that involve high mobility and enemy avoidance more viable. While obstacles can still generate in ways that produce choke points and areas you can get cornered, you'll never have to worry about getting stuck at the edge of the map. Where this game goes depends on you! Making this game was a blast and I'm ready to see if people have just as much fun playing it as I did making it! I'm very excited to see what other people think about it and I appreciate constructive feedback. As an individual, I am pleased about how this went as a project and I am excited to work on more things. However, if this game is well received and enough people would enjoy more content, such that I could justify spending more time and bringing on additional talent, I would be just as passionate about adding things to this game as I would be about working on a new one. Thanks for reading about this game, and a special thanks if you play it! Welcome to the home of zombie experiences in the UK. With all kinds of zombie experiences spread over many awesome locations across the country, you're never far from the EPIC thrill of a lifetime. With movie grade special effects make-up and professional horror actors bringing the events to life, our zombie experiences will be something you never forget. Suitable for individual or group bookings, now is the time to not only face, but to experience, the fear... A Zombie Experience is an immersive horror experience set in a zombie apocalyptic world. Those worlds can very from venue to venue and event to event, and you can meet different characters in each but the one constant is zombies! But what is an immersive horror experience? It is a plot driven event, so there is a storyline, and actors playing characters (both good guys and bad) who will guide you through the experience helping the plot unfold. Generally in a Zombie Experience at some point early in the event you will be weaponed up (this might be paintball, airsoft, laser weaponry or specialised realistic looking and feeling blank firing guns - it depends again on the venue and event) and the zombie threat explained or foreshadowed. Then, it depends on how the story line unfolds as to how you will find yourself taking on the undead. There could even be some living bad guys to overcome as well. Last but not least, most of these events will also include some kind of escape room style challenges (but don't worry they will be set up so that the adrenaline keeps pumping and the action never stops!). You can check out our information pages under the 'Experiences' menu to read more about what each event does or doesn't include, as we have outlined all of that and more for each and every event offered. The zombie infection is upon us. Right across the country, outbreaks are threatening to engulf society as we know it. The government tried to contain the situation covertly. They failed. Now it is time for everyday citizens to become EPIC and help combat the emerging situation, to prevent the zombification of the entire nation. Each location presents its own challenges, missions and rewards. Each will require nerves of steel and a willingness to face the unexpected. Often. The only thing to do now, is to decide which of our zombie experiences you are going to try first! So whether you're a lone warrior, or part of a crack team of mates, there can be no more doubts, no more delaying and no more excuses: it's time to face the fear... Each location has its own distinct vibe, with a plot that works with the venue to give you the best possible immersive horror experience that we can. Depending on the venue, there will be 18-36 people in total, all working together to battle the walking dead and hopefully complete the missions. These events are immersive horror experiences (except for the London Tombs Zombie for a Day events) so you can expect an event that aims to make a zombie apocalyptic world come alive (or is that undead?) for you. You will become part of a story, a character trying to survive in an undead world. Please check individual experience pages for more information on weapons, timings and what to expect at that particular venue. Each venue has it's own age limit, but generally speaking the majority require participants to be 18 years old. The key exceptions are the London Bunker & Droitwich Boot Camp events, which have a minimum age limit of 14, and the Dungeons in York which have a minimum age of 12. Please be aware that for all of these events with lower minimum age requirements there will still often be a requirement to either have an adult accompanying or a waiver form signed by a guardian. Please refer to the zombie experience page that interests you for the minimum age for that venue and event. We have helped thousands of people enjoy a zombie experience and many of those came as groups of all sizes. So if you are a small band of friends needing some help to find a session that can fit you in, or a stag/hen party wanting to celebrate the upcoming day in style, then we have options! We have also worked with numerous corporate clients who we have helped with team building sessions through to major events. And in case you were wondering, yes we can also assist if you need to hire some zombies for a product launch or media promotion. The event staff were amazing. They didn't throw you straight into the roleplay which for the more nervous of our party was really appreciated. The immersion really started once you were in the building after briefing and use of the facilities. I agree with one of the previous reviews, lean into the roleplay side of things as it really adds to the experience especially with a group of good friends. The environment and the bunker itself was so creepy and atmospheric but so cool. You really can't see much in there but it adds to the feel. For anyone who is nervous but are pretty sure they'll have a good time: Once you're in and get a flavour of what to expect and how the guns handle you'll love it from there onwards. The weapons were easy to use air guns which meant we only had to worry about general safety between each other and the actors as opposed to taking firearms training and wearing a bunch of safety gear. The objectives were straightforward and clear with room for our teams of two to split up into various areas due to how big the bunker is. I got to live out my Last of Us dreams against one of the zombies in a stealth scenario and would love to come back and do it all again. Thanks for having us!
