Highly recommend this school if you have curious, fun children who love adventures! Our Reviews on Google 5 8/26/2019We have loved our experience with Canyon Grove Academy. The small class sizes have a great for our little girl who is in the all-day kindergarten program. From the opportunities she has from doing her normal classroom structure and then going to the computer lab, or going to the computer lab, from the art class or to PE, it has been a great learning experience for her. She has been able to excel and grow at the school with the wonderful teachers who care and have time to care for the small class sizes. If you are thinking about sending your child to a charter school I would recommend Canyon Grove Academy very highly. - Posted by Parent - Grateful Parent5 8/14/2019We love Canyon Grove. The Distance Ed program is amazing. If you homeschool I definitely recommend looking into Canyon Grove. The teachers are great. Director Kim Goates is amazing, she cares so much about the kids and families and works hard. Each year it just gets better and better. Great school! - Posted by Parent - Sarah M2 7/19/2017DO NOT send your children to CGA! We spend three years going from bad to worse. Any good things that the school proclaims are not followed through on. Huge classroom sizes, no classroom structure, rampant bullying, and limited extra curricular activities just to name a few. The garden and outside of the classroom experiences that they tout during tours are non-existent during the year. - Posted by Parent - parent3225 5/17/2016Quail Run has an awesome after school program, great math teachers, school lunch kids want to eat and the bus program is a lifesaver. Our family hasn't liked all of the teachers we have had but most of them really care about the students. We love the charter and the hands on activities kids get to do. - Posted by Parent - barba5 5/17/2016This is the third year that we have been at Quail Run. Our initial reason for choosing the school followed the premise that not every child learns the same way. We have appreciated the opportunity our son has to learn the way that he learns best, not in the traditional sense where he sits in one desk all day long. We love having teachers that specialize in the subjects, teaching those subjects all day to all of the students as they rotate from classroom to classroom. This gives the teacher the opportunity to teach the subjects that they have the passion for at various levels rather than relying on one teacher to teach the same children all day, every subject (some that they are not interested in teaching). The kids are exposed to technology and various methods of learning that we never had in a traditional setting. We appreciate the environmental focus of the school and the bus system. We have a school garden that the kids walk by everyday. They are able to see the food grow and have it prepared for their lunches or snacks. I appreciate that we have more of a voice as parents at the school. We can be as involved as we want to be. In fact, it is encouraged! The Board has a parent representative that is voted in by the parents of the school. The more the parents have been involved, the better it gets. To be fair and honest, the first two years were bumpy and didn't go as well as some of us wanted them to. It was to be expected given that the school was EXTIRELY new. It has come a long way and this year has started off very well. The staff is settled and the kids are learning! We have seen people come back who have left the school because their kids were happy at our school. The charter is coming to fruition and the evolution of the school has been an honor to be part of and every effort we have made towards it has been worth it. Everyone there knows that there is room to grow and they work hard to improve every day. - Posted by Parent - tonya2 5/17/2016This is a horrible school. There is no research-based curriculum, parents are not encouraged to be involved and teacher turnover is extremely high. My child learned hardly anything while she attended. She even had to do summer math tutoring to get back to grade level. The math teachers were horrible, very hard to work with and they refused to ever show me my child's work. Don't waste your time with this school. - Posted by Parent - ameo!5 5/17/2016Quail Run's approach to education is a breath of fresh air! As a teacher, I was attracted to this school because of its emphasis on hands-on and inquiry-based learning. This approach gives students more responsibility for their own learning and gives a chance for non-traditional learners to meet with success. Quail Run also has an excellent art and extra-curricular program. As part of their school experience, all students participate in dance, art, music and drama, which is another way the needs of various types of learners can be met. A product of much arts education myself, I am a big advocate for the arts in education. They encourage critical thinking and social skills in a way other subjects cannot. Come see what Quail Run is all about! - Posted by Teacher - sara.5 5/17/2016Quail Run is a fabulous school! There is a lot of hands-on learning, and students often have the chance to move around. All grades have the opportunity to go to art and music classes. The school also offers after school enrichment classes four days a week that cover all sorts of things like cooking, art, reading, music, and many others! It's a great place to send your kids! - Posted by Teacher - ashli!5 9/12/2012The programs are academic and fun. The school runs in a functional fashion. This school has a very happy and good staff. The facility needs help in the cleaning department, other than that the school is great. - Posted by Teacher - baile5 9/12/2012I've taught at other schools and chose to come to Quail Run for several reasons. I appreciate the encouragement to do a large variety of activities that promote learning for all types of learners. The class sizes are smaller which allows me the opportunity to work with each student individually on a daily basis. The students are respectful and excited about learning. The staff and administration work as a TEAM to provide a quality education for every student. Parents are supportive and share their time and resources. Oh, that there were more schools like Quail Run so more children could have an exciting and effective educational experience! - Posted by Teacher - vicki5 9/12/2012This is my second year teaching at Quail Run and this school year we have been AMAZING! The staff this year is so pleasant and creative which makes creating lessons that cross curriculum fun and easy. It is such a great experience to be able to teach the subject that I love in a way that is exciting and innovative. It is a relief that the school encourages us to reach all learning types and is structured to do so. I love my job! - Posted by Teacher - miss!5 9/12/2012I have loved my experience at Quail Run! The administration works sooo hard to help things run smoothly. The teachers have such positive attitudes and I love how they collaborate with each other to figure out ways to teach the best way for the kids. What drew me to this school was their active-learning approach because I really do believe we all learn best by doing. I also like the idea of integrating the different subjects because that helps kids (and adults...) to make meaningful connections. - Posted by Teacher - h.m.c5 9/12/2012Quail Run is an excellent school. They have a wonderful academic program that focus" on hands-on-learning. Not all students learn the same and at Quail run, they know that. They do their best to teach each child in their way. They have music classes, art classes, and even dance. Mon-Thurs, they also have enrichment classes! Bring your student here, they will love it. - Posted by Teacher - heat!5 9/12/2012In the time I have been employed with Quail Run Primary School I have been so impressed with all that the school has to offer to the students who attend. Each student receives personalized, individual academic attention due to the small class sizes which allows the students to learn in grow in their own unique learning ways. Quail Run Primary School also provides a non-traditional school day schedule where all grade levels travel around to a different classroom for each subject area. There are specialty teachers who specialize in and teach each of the subject areas. There are specialty teachers who specialize in and teach each of the subject areas. There are specialty teachers who specialize in and teach each of the subject areas. The arts are introduced to students at a young age at this school including music, theatre, visual arts, and dance. Quail Run also introduces languages such as spanish and ASL to students starting in the lower grades. I see a difference in the children who attend this school; they become well rounded and diverse individuals who begin to love learning and exploring all the world has to offer. I highly recommend Quail Run Primary School for its unique and diverse educational environment. - Posted by Teacher - shaunReview Canyon Grove Academy. Reviews should be a few sentences in length. Please include any comments on:Quality of academic programs, teachers, and facilitiesAvailability of music, art, sports and other extracurricular activities Kim Goates is originally from Brisbane, Australia, though she has now spent more than half her life in the US. Kim started educating her own children at home more than 30 years ago and has owned and run several businesses during that time. She has a tremendous love of and passion for learning and teaching. This love and passion, joined with her entrepreneurial spirit, led her to take the reins in February 2016 of Canyon Grove Academy, and create one of the most unique schools in the state. Immersed is the best way to describe Kim's search for a better education model for student, parents, and, ultimately, schools. With her experience as a homeschool mom, she took the deep dive into creating, designing, implementing, and now maintaining systems that bridge the gap between homeschooling families and charter schools through a hybrid distance effort. Students thrive and parents love that their voices are heard at Canyon Grove due in large part to Kim's efforts. Mrs. Goates has a contagious passion, love, and enthusiasm for life, her family, and learning. She embodies Mark Twain's famous quip about not letting school get in the way of him learning. While Kim appreciates there are laws and rules governing education, her efforts clearly point to a focus on individualizing learning for each student. When she is not at work refining Canyon Grove's efforts with her team, she can be found working on the farm at the school, tending to the animals and plants. When the rare moment finds her not at the school, she can be found enjoying her great family, playing the piano, and looking for ways to do more to get access to learning opportunities for kids and their families. Reviews:4.94Number of Reviews:433 Utah Public Schools & Education System Utah Public School System and Education Utah, renowned for its stunning landscapes and vibrant culture, also boasts a robust public school system dedicated to shaping the minds of its future leaders. From kindergarten through high school, Utah's education system strives to provide students with comprehensive learning experiences, equipping them with the skills and knowledge necessary for success in the 21st century. Let's delve into the intricacies of Utah's public school system and explore how it's nurturing the next generation. Foundation of Education At the heart of Utah's education system lies a commitment to academic excellence and inclusivity. The Utah State Board of Education oversees the state's public education system, setting educational standards, allocating resources, and guiding curriculum development. With a focus on innovation and adaptability, the board continually seeks to enhance teaching methodologies and student outcomes. Structure and Organization Utah's public school system is organized into local school districts, each serving specific communities within the state. These districts operate under the guidance of elected school boards, which play a crucial role in shaping policies, managing budgets, and fostering community engagement. The decentralized nature of Utah's education system allows for tailored approaches to meet the unique needs of diverse student populations. Curriculum and Standards Utah adheres to rigorous academic standards designed to prepare students for college, career, and civic life. The state's core curriculum encompasses essential subjects such as English language arts, mathematics, science, and social studies. Additionally, Utah emphasizes the importance of arts education, physical fitness, and technological literacy to cultivate well-rounded individuals. Innovation and Technology Integration Recognizing the transformative power of technology in education, Utah embraces innovation to enhance learning experiences. Many schools leverage digital tools and online resources to personalize instruction, facilitate collaborative learning, and expand educational opportunities beyond traditional classrooms. From interactive whiteboards to virtual learning platforms, technology integration is integral to Utah's educational landscape. Teacher Development and Support Utah prioritizes the professional growth and well-being of its educators, understanding that they are pivotal in shaping students' educational journeys. The state offers various professional development programs, mentorship opportunities, and resources to empower teachers in their roles. Additionally, ongoing support networks and collaborative initiatives foster a culture of continuous improvement within the teaching community. Diversity and Inclusion Utah celebrates its cultural diversity and recognizes the importance of fostering inclusive learning environments where all students feel valued and supported. Efforts to promote diversity, equity, and inclusion are woven into the fabric of Utah's education system, with initiatives aimed at addressing disparities, promoting cultural competency, and nurturing empathy and understanding among students. Parent and Community Engagement Collaboration between schools, parents, and communities is fundamental to Utah's education ecosystem. The state encourages parental involvement through outreach programs, volunteer opportunities, and parent-teacher partnerships. Moreover, community organizations, businesses, and civic leaders actively contribute to enriching educational experiences and expanding opportunities for students statewide. Challenges and Opportunities While Utah's public school system has made significant strides, it also faces certain challenges. Adequate funding, particularly in rural and underserved areas, remains a persistent issue. Additionally, addressing achievement gaps and ensuring equitable access to quality education for all students require ongoing attention and resources. However, these challenges are met with a spirit of resilience and innovation. Utah embraces opportunities to collaborate, adapt, and innovate, ensuring that its education system remains responsive to the evolving needs of students and society. Utah's public school system stands as a testament to the state's commitment to fostering excellence, equity, and opportunity in education. Through a combination of visionary leadership, dedicated educators, and community support, Utah continues to nurture the potential of its students, empowering them to thrive in an ever-changing world. As Utah looks towards the future, its steadfast dedication to education serves as a beacon of hope and inspiration for generations to come.
