The A2 proficiency level (Elementary English) is the second from six reference levels defined by CEFR (Common European Framework of Reference for Languages). Compared to the alternative English language assessment frameworks, it is similar to Cambridge KEY (KET) certificate, CLB/CELP 4 or Cambridge English: Flyers (YLE Flyers). The CEFR Common Reference levels are fully defined in a structured set of illustrative ‘can-do’ descriptors for many different categories. The main descriptors for A2 level include also these ‘can-do’ statements: Can understand sentences and frequently used expressions related to areas of most immediate relevance (e.g. very basic personal and family information, shopping, local geography, employment). Can communicate in simple and routine tasks requiring a simple and direct exchange of information on familiar and routine matters. Can describe in simple terms aspects of his/her background, immediate environment and matters in areas of immediate need. After you have done this, you will not be able to return to the question page to change any of your answers, so make sure that you have checked all of your answers before you finish to make sure you haven't made any silly mistakes.When you go forward on to the next page, you will receive your results immediately: you will be given a score out of 40. Then you can compare your score to the SGI language level chart.Your score will relate to a CEFR language level grade (A1, A2, B1, B2 & C1). However, this should only be used as a guide for your English competence. Normally in a school placement, you complete a grammar test and would also have a thorough interview with a teacher to truly assess your English skills.An accurate assessment of your level needs to include speaking, writing, listening and writing, so this online English test is by no means a true and accurate appraisal of how good or bad you are at English.Good luck with the English test.You may also like...
