By Patricia, Facty Staffupdated: June 24, 2019 Hand and mouth-to-mouth is the result of contact with Virus of the enterovirus genus, usually Coxsackievirus. The condition is highly contagious and spreads through direct contact with hands, saliva and surfaces not washed contaminated with feces. While it is possible to contract the disease at any age, it is almost exclusively limited to children under five years. The body constructs immunity once exposed and the reinfection is unusual. Children are more susceptible to disease, because they are often in social situations less than sanitary, such as schools and playgrounds. Once a child hires manual fever and mouth, it is common that his colleagues follow. Fever or a sore throat are often the first symptoms to gifts, followed by characteristic bubbles in the mouth and a cut-out eruption in the hands and feet. Miconicians are usually able to diagnose a child with a physical examination, and clinical treatment is often unnecessary, since the symptoms should disappear in seven to ten days. During this time, it is best to avoid contact with others. Although rare, Coxsackievirus can lead to more serious symptoms. Communfeversore Symptoms Throatloss of Appetitemouth Blistersrash in the hands and feet of Contentures hand. Pantry and the mouth disease is a common disease and contagious infancy, caused by a Virus. The disease is easy to identify because of its clinical symptoms - wounds or bubbles inside and out of the mouth, as well as a cutter eruption (red spots) or wounds in the palms of the OS AND SOLAS OF THE PUTS. Baby and children under 5 years are more likely to get the Virus. But older children, teenagers and adults can also obtain it. A faint outbreak of the disease commonly occurs during the summer and early autumn. This disease should not be confused with foot-and-mouth disease, which affects sheep, cattle and pigs. If your child has hand, standing and disease, they may experience the following symptoms: fever (which may be high), Headache. Feeling badly or overly tired. Little appetite. Sore throat. Painful wounds or bubbles around or mouth (cheeks, gums and throat). They usually begin as flat red stains, flat red stains on the palms of their hands and soles. These slightly painful spots can turn into bubbles and sometimes can spread to the knees, elbows, backround or genital areas. These symptoms usually do not appear from a once, but in steps. Not every person will have all these symptoms. Some people, especially adults, receive the disease and show no symptoms. But they can still pass it to others. Symptoms usually appear 3 to 7 days after contacting someone with disease. More symptoms can develop complications. Because wounds make it difficult to swallow, children and adults can become dehydrated. High fevers can cause convulsions. The hand, the feet and the mouth are caused à € à €
