As careful as you are, there are situations that could cause a problem for you. If you are prepared, you may be able to prevent any serious outcomes. All drivers have the responsibility to do all they can to prevent collisions. You have three options to avoid a collision or to reduce its impact. These options are braking, steering, or accelerating. North Carolina DMV Written Knowledge Test Number of questions on exam: 30 questions Passing score: 80 percent Correct answers to pass: 24 Allotted time to complete test: No limit Wait time before retest: 1 day This South Carolina permit practice is an alternative to the sample test offered by South Carolina Department of Motor Vehicles (SCDMV). It has more questions, immediate feedback, and quick explanations when you miss a question. Your score is revealed at the end of the test. It is a random knowledge test with questions drawn from a larger question bank. The practice test covers all important items described in the SCDMV Driver's Manual. All answers to the test questions are found in the driver's manual published by SCDMV. Don't skip the manual and think you can pass the test just by memorizing questions and answers from the practice tests. Not only are you likely to fail, but you will also be a less knowledgeable driver and probably risk more accidents. Get the latest version of the Driver's Manual from your nearest SCDMV location or download a free PDF-version online at www.scdmvonline.com. There are 30 questions on the South Carolina Knowledge Exam. The passing score is 80 percent, which means you must answer at least 24 questions correctly. On each practice test, there are only 15 questions, but you can take the practice test over and over again. Each test will be slightly different and most like have new questions. Take enough tests to be comfortable with all questions and answers. If you fail your first attempt on the test, you can normally try again the next business day. Remember, many test takers fail their first attempt. Prepare well before the exam. Make a study plan. Set aside multiple shorter study blocks during a period of several weeks. Underestimating the time you need to study for your exam is risky study tactics and a very common mistake. You can take the knowledge tests at any SCDMV branch or at an authorized Auto School. In recent years, SCDMV has adopted the AAMVA Model Driver's License Manual and corresponding test questions. This has made the knowledge examination slightly easier, and South Carolina now appears to have a lower failure rate than before. It also means that you must make sure that you have the latest version of the manual. Old manuals will NOT have the same information and are not good if you want to prepare for the knowledge test. Remember, test questions are always drawn from the information in the new manual. New drivers. If you apply for an original South Carolina permit or driver's license and haven't been licensed before, you must always pass the knowledge test. Drivers who let their license expire more than nine months. If you don't renew your SC driver license within nine months of the expiration date, you must pass start over and apply for a new license, which means that you must pass both the knowledge test and the road skills test again. Drivers who had their license revoked. If your license has been revoked, you must wait until the revocation period has passed, make a new application, and take the complete examination just as if you never had a license before. Drivers with a foreign license. Drivers who move to South Carolina and hold a license from a foreign country other than Canada, Germany, or France must pass all tests. Note that international customers must apply for a license at designated locations. Not all branches offer this service. If you have a valid out-of-state permit, it can be transferred to a beginner's permit in South Carolina. The time you held the out-of-state permit counts toward the 180-day requirement. An expired out-of-state permit means you must take the vision and knowledge tests again. When you have a valid driver's license from another state, you only need to pass the vision test and surrender your out-of-state driver's license. If your out-of-state driver's license has expired by nine months, you must pass the vision test and successfully complete the knowledge and road tests. To be exempt from the knowledge test, drivers from Canada, France, Germany, American Samoa, Guam, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands, the Federated States of Micronesia, the Republic of the Marshall Islands, and the Republic of Palau must hold a valid driver license. If the out-of-country license has expired, an applicant must successfully complete all the necessary tests. Note that you will be allowed to keep an out-of-country license, but you cannot use it when you have a S.C. license. If you use that license, SCDMV will revoke your South Carolina license.
