Elm st diner near me

Skip to content Getaway28938300219Great food, enormous portionsWent here with my son and another family after soccer and it was a great experience. The menu had lots of very unique options and it was tough to make up my mind. All 6 people of us got different things and loved our meals. The portions are enormous and when we return we plan to share meals because they were so big. Steak and Cheese fries were yummy. Service was good too. Will definitely go back.This review is the subjective opinion of a Tripadvisor member and not of TripAdvisor LLC. The waitress was friendly and the food didn't take long to arrive. I didn't like their seating process. You have to wait on line outside. You're called in according to how many people are in your party regardless of how long you've waited!! The address to the diner is on Elm Street, however the entrance is on Halloween Blvd. Parking is limited!Written February 23, 2025 This review is the subjective opinion of a Tripadvisor member and not of TripAdvisor LLC. Food was delicious. They have amazing staffs; very friendly and attentive. They went above and beyond. The staffs also gave us Maple Syrup samples from Vermont as a souvenir! We'll definitely come back!!Written February 15, 2024 This review is the subjective opinion of a Tripadvisor member and not of TripAdvisor LLC. Overhyped.I got the Nutella Reese's churro French toast ($20) and at first I thought it was huge. However, it was smaller than expected, especially for $20. I knew there was a lot of whipped cream from the online photos, but that was probably the majority of the value, more than I thought. It was sweet, definitely not short on calories and the French toast itself was cooked very well with that cool churro crust. The food came out really fast, which makes me a little suspicious how much was homemade or if part of it was premade. The staff was OK, not really attentive.This review is the subjective opinion of a Tripadvisor member and not of TripAdvisor LLC. I had a cinnamon sugar donut and an order of corned beef hash, which I thought was homemade but it didn't look like it but it was very yummy nice and hot and crispy just the way I like it. My husband had the he-man breakfast which had French toast eggs and three types of meat. initially we drove right by it but turned around and found it and there is a parking lot behind The building after you drive down a skinny alleyway. The interior is very fun and the walls are decorated nicely.This review is the subjective opinion of a Tripadvisor member and not of TripAdvisor LLC. Came here for brunch on Thursday around 11:30. The restaurant has its own parking lot. There is a line of people waiting on stairs (noted an available outside elevator) to outside entrance for a table that must be really popular. The interior room for eating than expected. Waiters were very friendly and service was good. Food was very good. The generous portions! Large menu with breakfast and non-breakfast options. We had the breakfast - eggs benedict and waffles with fruit. Both the restaurant is located next to an Environmental Disposal site which was very disconcerting. We decided to stay because Trip Advisor gave it a #11 rating. The restaurant was not that clean & the bathrooms needed cleaning. The waiters did not care if they took our order, if our order came out of the kitchen in a timely manner or whether we stayed or left. We left!This review is the subjective opinion of a Tripadvisor member and not of TripAdvisor LLC. TripAdvisor performs checks on reviews as part of our industry-leading trust & safety standards. It sounded interesting, and I wanted to try something new. What a disaster. The breaded chicken patty, chopped up for the wrap was dry and flavorless. The mac n cheese texture next to the chicken was really off-putting. The dish came with an injector of buffalo sauce which was flashy and completely unnecessary. I had one of their "famous" shakes. Ehh, my hometown icecream parlor is much better and doesn't brag about it. An entirely forgettable experience.This review is the subjective opinion of a Tripadvisor member and not of TripAdvisor LLC. We paid more here than if we went out for a more upscale dinner. The kids enjoyed injecting their wraps with sauces, the breakfasts were sweet treats rather than a nutritional Meal and the milkshakes...Mamma Mia! Glad we stopped for the experience but will not rush back.This review is the subjective opinion of a Tripadvisor member and not of TripAdvisor LLC. The cheese fries had stacks of prepackaged kraft cheese that wasn't even melted. The dessert had disgusting cake and frosting. But as far as presentation and decor, it was nice. Over priced dry chicken for $20 plate of chicken and waffles. Taste just as good or maybe better at a corner chicken spot for a quarter of the price. However, the waffle tasted good but not for $20. The mac and cheese on the buffalo mac and cheese wrap was dry and wrap was burned. For three people, the bill was $108. Would I die to return? Absolutely not.This review is the subjective opinion of a Tripadvisor member and not of TripAdvisor LLC. Being from out of town, parking was interesting. You had to go down an alley to get to the restaurant parking lot. I got there about 1pm, and this place was jumping. Being solo, I sat at the bar/counter. I got their chicken lemon rice soup. It was very fresh and very yummy. Following the soup, I enjoyed a skirt steak meal with rice pilaf and sautéed spinach. Very generous portion size. It was a two person serving. Good quality food at reasonable prices. This review is the subjective opinion of a Tripadvisor member and not of TripAdvisor LLC. Not only do they serve traditional diner food but they also have several items on the menu that are wild. Basically, a heart attack to happen. LoL. For example, some of their milkshakes have donuts, twinkled, candy hanging off of them. The French toast with nutella and peanut butter was what I tried this time. Yum. Foe their "wild" dishes just look up the photos on Instagram. Enjoy! I drive an hour and a half, one way, a couple times a year, just to visit this place.This review is the subjective opinion of a Tripadvisor member and not of TripAdvisor LLC. Not only do they have an amazing selection of breakfast items but their lunch is amazing too! but you better save room because their freak shakes are 1 in a million! I got a Chocolate one and shared it with a friend:) it was the best shake I've ever had. If you're in the area and with friends I'd 100% recommend elm Street This review is the subjective opinion of a Tripadvisor member and not of TripAdvisor LLC. This was my second time visiting and I was excited as this place has been blowing up on IG. I finally got a chance to visit since I was back in town visiting. It was packed so we got stuck next to the door which was annoying because it was cold and rainy that day. We were promptly greeted. My sister and I shared the short rib Benny which came with garlicy fries. It was a good sized portion but we had already ate before since we were waiting for our little sister. Sadly the fries did not taste garlicy at all and lacked flavor. My other sister had the hungry man. I had a bite of her pancakes which were huge and they were delicious. I had a hot chocolate which was also delicious and both of my sisters had the Oreo milkshake. The milkshakes are nicely presented and they definitely have a lot more specialty ones on the menu that are IG worthy. They definitely have a menu with plenty of options to choose from not just breakfast but breakfast is also served all day. I didn't like that our server never came to check on us and when we finally did get the check he never came to pick it up. Portions are large, service is quick, and even if there's a waiting line, it moves pretty quickly. Easy parking in rear of building. Must have: Apple Cider donuts. They'll bring them for you as an "appetizer" if you ask nicely!This review is the subjective opinion of a Tripadvisor member and not of TripAdvisor LLC.
