similarities that Jughead and Henry (Austin Abrams) from Chemical Hearts share, Reinhart Grace's character couldn't be further away from Betty Cooper. Before the film started, Grace's boyfriend died in a car accident that hurt her badly. It brings a lot of senses of guilt and sadness from that event, so while he wants to move on with Jughead 2.0, his heart doesn't necessarily have to. The soundtrack of the film announces the struggles that the duo will have, with still happier love montages, set in songs on despair. There's also a song that sounds more and more evolved, talking about a person who does the heavy work of all relationships. The title says practically everything. A chemical pregnancy is the one that ends before even starting, with a fecundated embryo that cannot root in the uterus. With this idea, a chemical heart looking for a new love would be condemned from the beginning. But at least the songs that mark this condemned relationship seem pretty. Lara Jean Covey (Lana Condor) and Peter Kavinsky (Noah Centineo) may already be in love at the time of All the boys: Always and forever roll around, but each couple needs a song to call their own. Luckily, TATB: Always and forever soundtrack is full of good options. The third Netflix trilogy film To The Boys includes a mix of optimistic pop and more mellow indie faire, passing from K-Pop to Oasis. But the real emphasis comes from the inclusion of some original songs written specifically for the film. Fletcher, Ashe and thed'Aviazione debuted new songs on the soundtrack to help tell the love story of Peter and Lara Jean. Greed Greed "Beginning Middle End" has a crucial role in the film, and will forever be known as the culmination of the greatest love story of our time. Unfortunately, not all of these songs in the film are on the official soundtrack, which was released on the same day of the film, Feb. 12, and contains sixteen songs. The soundtrack is without K-pop-free and does not contain some key tracks that play throughout the film. To make sure you don't lose a beat, watch every single song in All The Boys: Always And Forever. Copyright/DMCA: We do not have any copyright on this sound.
