Dummy dummy dummy dummy teretteretteretterette ttet te tte tte ttere~ Some lines in the translation reflect the traits of Cirno. You're talking about a character who can't even spell her name right... [1] Do the same thing with "Lucy in the Sky with Diamonds" and you'll see. [2] Abbreviation for 'yaoi'. [3] Reference to Antonio Inoki's quote, 'genki ga areba nandemo dekiru' ("Anything's possible if you're in top-shape"), and also his trademark call, 'ichi! ni! san! daaaa!' (1! 2! 3! DAAA!) [4] This is ultimately down to the reason that Reimu is poor and so couldn't have owned such an expensive vase. It's not mentioned in the lyrics but is well-known in Touhou canon. [5] These two stanzas are a response to IOSYS' former work Kanbu de Tomatte Sugu Tokeru ~Kyouki no Udongein, featuring Reisen Udongein Inaba (as the "Inaba rabbit"), which had over a million views on Nico Nico Douga at the time. (Ironically, as of now the viewcount of this song on NND is double that of the songs it is dissing (the one above as well as Oyome ni Shinasai! and Nusunde Ikimashita).
