Hopefully it will ease the learning curve for some of you.* Try to have both ranged (magic or physical) and melee (physical only) options available.* The best way to attack melee creatures (especially Damage Shield) is at range, and ranged creatures (especially Reflect enemies) is in melee.* One use items (e.g javelins, Nets, etc) sell for 1 gold each and so you are better off using them.* Their effectiveness also tails off the further into the game you get so dont hoard them either.* Multi use wands are the best use of Enchant Scrolls, use the wand until it has 1 charge left then enchant it. It now has increased charges and is refilled to full. (e.g. a Lightning Wand starts with 5/5 charges, use 4 charges until it is 1/5, after enchanting it now has 8/8 charges)* Attribute potions are very valuable, get them whenever you can, and use them right away.* Increase your main attribute every chance you get until you can reach level 2 on every skill you wish to learn, then increase whichever other attribute seems most important* Meat doesnt just fill your food meter, it also heals and increases MP and SP. Dont use it until one of those effects becomes relevant.* Dont be afraid of becoming hungry, I once cleared 2 whole floors on 0 food without going low enough on health for eating to be worth it. (I did get lucky with level ups, fountains, and variety of enemy on that run but it shows it can be done)=Enemy Priority List=

* Generally you should target enemies in this order.* Guaranteed kills who can attack you.* Healers.* Anyone with an element attack you are vulnerable to.* Any group you can hit with an AOE attack of some sort.* The hardest hitter who can threaten you.Visit Cheatinfo for more Cheat Codes, FAQs or Tips! In particular, the terrain is stable and water are both useful and dangerous. Take your time and think your way through each situation.Shift-Click lets you step on dangerous terrain.Evasion is super powerful.Protection doesn't work on elemental damage.One point of resistance gives up to a 40% reduction in that elemental damageA little bit of protection is very useful, well worth the loss of spell power as a mage.Be careful of the blue crystal golems - they will reflect any projectile attack (including a bunch of spells).Remember you do not have to fight everything, particularly turrets.The +4 Max HP from potions is pretty useful.Side dungeons can be dangerous, but if you complete them they make the rest of your run easier.Using a scroll of acquirement at a higher level gives better enchantments.Some goods that the merchant sells are a bargain (scrolls, food, potions).Skill trainers are very useful.There is guaranteed to be food on floors 4, 8, 9, 12, 16. (9 is with the merchant)You can refill the charges of wands and charms by enchanting them.Kiting[]Whenever you see a group of enemies in an open area, get their attention and then retreat, pulling them back into a corridor or trap filled area to help reduce the number you have to fight. This skill is essential on almost all characters.Corner Bashing[]Used by all classes to take out ranged enemies. First get their attention, then retreat around a corner. Wait a few turns (space bar or clicking on your character) and they will conveniently walk around the corner into your range.NOTE: there should be another wall above you so the enemies will have to walk through a tunnel to get to you, it would be bad if the enemies go up, see you and then start shooting you from a distanceStair Dancing[]By moving up and down the stairs you can do multiple things. You can use it to give yourself time to rest or recharge cooldowns, or you can take the enemies that are surrounding the stairs with a turn to isolate them from the group, brutally murder them alone, and then repeat with their companions. It can also be used to move pesky crystal golems upstairs and then you can leave them there.Stair Dancing is slightly less advantageous in the Steam version since version 1.12 (released 1/28/19) than it is in the Web version, since the player uses a turn to travel stairs.Pillar Dancing[]If a single enemy is chasing you but all your skills are on cooldown, instead of running into a new room if there is a pillar you can dance around it until your cooldowns have reset. The enemy will never be able to catch you if you just move back and forth around the pillar.Food Greeding[]While it may be safer, it is not the most efficient if you eat food as soon as your food bar is empty. Eating food restores 1/2 your health and mana, so you should take advantage of this by ensuring you have used half your mana (if applicable) and health before you eat. If you chain this together with leveling up or fountains, you can sometimes go quite a while without eating food, giving you more for when you really need it later. If you are low on food you can also use 1/2 your health bar to move around extending how long your food will last for. Beware - this can lead to death if you get caught by surprise at low health.Play as an immortal lich using a necromancer! Life Spike, Summon Skeleton, and Cannibalize is a built-in talent combo that lets you sustain your life with the unlife of your skeletal minions. (life spike no longer works on summon skeleton)Leveling Up[]While this doesn't seem like much of a tactic by itself, leveling up can be used as a strategic resource. When you level up it fully restores your HP and MP, which is completely wasted if you have full bars. Particularly as a mage, if you pay attention to your exp bar, you can use it to spam spells and destroy the enemy, making it an easy fight without wasting any mana. It will also stop you from wasting food by resting right before you level up. When you level up all cooldowns are reset. Use this to your advantage during fights.Cheesing Yendor[]With a few blink scrolls or a blink charm and perhaps a hellfire scroll you can easily get the Goblet of Yendor without fighting all the enemies. The strategy works the same for both final floor layouts - blink past all the enemies and grab the goblet, popping a hellfire scroll or two for some nice fireworks if you have them.Game Mechanic Notes[]While there are many talents in the game, there are only 8 talent/charm slots. If all 8 slots are filled, you can't learn new active/sustain talents. If you learned 8 active/sustain talents, equipping a charm with an activation ability will not allow you to use that ability. Be careful learning active/sustain talents. I wrote to customer support to get help with a faulty Fire TV stick 4k, stuck on update, known issue.After troubleshooting with 5 different agents, they offered me a refund on a newly purchased new gen FireTV 4k if I purchase it right then.I ordered the product and was promised that upon delivery the amount paid will be automatically wired on my debit card and was advised to dispose of the defective unit.The package arrived next day. After on Saturday.No sign of the money though.So on Wednesday I've contacted customer support again.They apologized and after chatting for 2hour 20' realized that I will not be getting my money back, the new agent stated that the support representative that tricked me to buy a new product in exchange of a refund was wrong and falsely promised me a refund.I ordered a brand new controller and the package never came its still tracking to this day with no updates for delivery or notifications on the whereabouts of the packageAmazon is best online shopping website. It's user friendly. You can available different offers and also you can free of cost return if you don't like product. It's fantastic online shopping platformWhat joke of a Co, but like so many megga rich Co (that apparently get out of paying UK tax) their service (try and get a human on the phone) and products are terrible.1 - their constant miss match charging when you buy a number of products in ONE transaction, get charged on your cc seperately, so you cannot match the original order to your statement, and when you add separate charge on the statement together, they never match what the original order on your acc says was the total - WONDER HOW AMAZON IS SOOO RICH ??? - their online Prime Video, happy to charge, but trying to stop the constant error codes that prevent you watching what you have paid for - ie get a human being to answer the phone. Joke 2.So yep we will all continue to use Amazon, as there is no current competitor with their set up, so rant over, just be warned - give up on Prime, cancell it, and watch your bills.. is going somewhere ?Yesterday failed delivery at 9.51 pm I was at home I never left the house, so tracking update was false.Today another item should have been delivered, the 4dayer knocked handed me the goods from previous day, said he couldn't find my small package he went back to his van to look, then drove away and marked package handed to resident, customer service will not replace or refund until Friday.Know I know delivery drivers are allowed to lie to customers, because customers dont matter will recommend that anyone who wants to order from Amazon think carefully.Today (Tuesday 3 December 2024) I was waiting for RM to collect my return to Amazon. I was waiting for the call or whatever from them but everything I got was the following lying email: "Unfortunately, we couldnt collect due to the following reasons: QY864796558GB - The parcel wasn't available when we called (3 December 2024 at 11.58am)."They never called which I can prove. Ive checked online and found there are many others who experienced the same lie from royal mail. So the conclusion is that either the RM or Amazon are responsible for the fact as Amazon is not happy to accept returns. Well, I will stop vbuying things from amazon and using RM.Date of experience: 03 December 2024I have always been happy with Amazon (aside from the fact returns could be a smoother process in Ireland) until today. I had two accounts, UK and US, but they were not linked as prime membership, order history, etc. didnt show on US account and emails received are from different email addresses with different registered companies shown. As I could not connect prime to my US account I decided to cancel it. However, this also cancelled my UK account despite them being separate and correspondence received in relation to cancelling the US account not mentioning cancelling my UK account. I now cant access my ring doorbell, prime tv or amazon for UK and have lost money as I have paid in advance for subscriptions. I called within 15 minutes of account access being removed and was on the phone for 1 hour and 7 minutes having consistently being put on hold and was told there is nothing that can be done. At no point was I offered a call back when the issue had been looked into and the agent insisted I stay on the call while she typed up notes even though my call was not going to be further transferred and I explained that I was abroad so the call would be expensive. I assume that was so another call didnt drop in but poor customer service. It was mentioned on the call that the agent could see my account yet it cant be reinstated. Im really unhappy with the lack of clarity in relation to closure of the account and cant see how it is compliant under GDPR. There is no way my data was permanently deleted so quickly and I dont know why it cant be reinstated considering I didnt consent to erasure of my UK account and requested it be reinstated.I BOUGHT KARCHER K7 ON AMAZON DE.THEY JUST DROPPED IT IN FRONT OF MY DOOR WHEN I WAS NOT AT HOME AND I EVEN HAD ANY CHANCE TO CHECK IT AND REFUSE!!!PACKAGING WAS DAMAGED AND PRODDUCT DID NOT WORKIT WAS USED BEFORE AND RE-SOLD TO ME!!! PAID 50 FOR DELIVERY AND THEY DEMANDED ANOTHER 50 FOR RETURN!!WHEN ITRIED TO MAKE COMPLAINT THEY FO NOT ANSWERED!!DID NOT RECOMMEND THIS COMPAN!!!!Yes, I agree with it its isn't amazon's mistake but the seller who is marking. But amazon applies policies of 7 days returns and refunds. You should thank amazon for such policies.Fast and Reliable Delivery. Amazon UK has always satisfied me with its fast and reliable delivery service. I appreciate the wide range of products available, often at competitive prices. The Prime membership benefits, like next-day delivery and access to Prime Video, are a significant plus. However, I occasionally encounter issues with product packaging, which can be frustrating. Overall, the convenience and efficiency make it my go-to online store.especially when the packaging isn't sufficient to protect the item during shipping. The user-friendly website, excellent customer service, and consistent delivery performance are impressive. The Product Durability in Amazon is the best. Customer Service already top notch. There aren't any hidden charges at all. Despite these minor drawbacks, the overall convenience, competitive pricing, and extensive product selection make Amazon UK my go-to online store. Whether Im shopping for electronics, books, or household items, I can always count on Amazon to deliver a seamless shopping experience.I am trying without luck to have contact with customer services at Amazon - can't find a phone number anywhere. 3rd kindle I have bought that has failed me! Does anyone have a number?There is also a dedicated number for KindleHope this helps and you get it sorted out, I think perhaps the fact that there is a dedicated number says it all !Why can't we get through to customer services? They have given me a phone number but no one to talk to.JasonLondon, Are you serious?Why didn't I think of that? If I want an answer to an Amazon business problem go to Google Brilliant????????????? Note: This is ONLY to be used to report spam, advertising, and problematic (harassment, fighting, or rude) posts. The ranger is a very easy class to learn, with a reliable build and quick clear time. With a range of 7 the ranger can easily match or outrange most enemies, and can kite everything to death. They have all the talents required to strafe dodge effectively. A ranger's weakness is the lack of burst AOE, but a well placed tunnel shot will clear mobs efficiently.Due to only requiring range and fortitude a ranger's build is very fast to complete. It is safe, as you invest in fortitude early. All of this combined makes it a great first class to learn the game with.As long as you get a few enchantments on your short bow the ranger is not effected by the RNG. If you don't get any enchantments the ranger can still win, but it will take more time to safely clear out the enemies.To fully utilize a ranger's strengths please read the How to Strafe Dodge guide. The Fortitude Build[]Race[] Attribute Points[] Skill Points[]10 Fortitude10 RangeStealth (Or focus if required)Talents[]Range Mastery - Bow base damage of 5 at level 2.Tunnel Shot - AOE and a second attacking skill reduces the amount of time spent kiting.Sprint - Great life saving skill.Strafe Attack - Able to kite more effectively, and re-position in fights. If used correctly, can shoot an enemy while running away at the same time.Evasive 1/2 - Evasion is very powerful and combos with strafe. The order you get these talents can vary to fit your situation and play style. I get them in the order they are listed here.Without tomes next is: Range Mastery 2, Tunnel Shot 2/3, Evasion 3, Power Shot 2Get perfect aim if you find it useful.After level 10 any of the ranger's talents are good, upgrade in the order that suits your play style.List of talents that are useful:Head Shot - As the ranger naturally gets stealth with dexterity this ability is amazing. With a range of 7 you do not have to sneak up on enemies, and can easily catch them unaware.Swiftness/Ice Armor - With a few MP pots it is quite easy to get 6 MP.Fortitude - A very good use of talent points.Evade - Always a nice skill to have. As a side effect of high dexterity the ranger can be pretty stealthy as well.If you don't get swiftness or ice armor, a spell like Charm or Summon Skeleton is good way to use your MP. Confusion works as well, but requires more talent points to be useful.Dead Eye- very situational but might be useful in boss fightsEquipment[]A +3 short bow is your first priority. This is enough to carry you through the whole game, however it is even better if you wish for a +4 or more long bow.As a ranger you can wear both leather armor and metal armor without incurring too much of a damage penalty, but keep in mind your stealth is reduced which might reduce crit damageConfusion is the best charm. Shock would be the second choice.Any item with -% HP is not worth it.A sling allows you to use a shield.Keep a good melee weapon to strafe attack crystal golems to death. Not necessary, but it speeds up the process.If you get a long bow you should win easily, and with a fast time. This strategy does not include getting a long bow, as that relies on the RNG.Merchant[]Keep your highest piece of useless enchanted gear for a transference table.Food, scrolls and potions are good items to buy.Altar[]Wealth or archery, whichever you see first. Archery gives projectiles ~1/500 turns. Wealth gives 100-200g.Potions[]HP: Save 1 HP pot, drink the rest to increase your stats. Buy HP pots from the merchant to drink for the stats.MP: If you have swiftness or ice armor buy MP pots from the merchant until 6 MP. MP pots reset your cooldowns, which can be useful in an emergency.Resistance: If you get a resistance pot drink all your HP pots.Powers: Can be used to help clear the final floor.Enchantment[]Enchant your bow over anything else. Do not hold on to enchantment scrolls as each level of enchantment will greatly increase your power. After +3 ,which happens to be a short bow's natural limit, you can enchant other items. I like to get a +5 item ready for a transference table, to get a +5 bow.Side Dungeons[]Always try the side dungeons, even if it to just poke your head in and see what's near the entrance. You might get gold / enchant tables / transfer tables / wishing wells.Sewers:[]Kite enemies into water to deal critical hits.Strafe the giant leaches.Use tunnel shot to clear the maggots.Use power shot to knock away hidden enemies. The ranger's skills can also hit enemies while hidden.For rotting corpses use power shot followed by tunnel shot to try and finish them. If you can't, position yourself so all maggots move into water to reach you, so you can one shot them.Arcane Tower:[]The ranger can reliably and safely clear the arcane tower.Ensure your cool downs have all reset before teleporting to a new room.Sprint is great for escaping from rooms.You outrange the imps 7 to 5, use this to your advantage.Strafe dodging is powerful, it allows you to practically ignore the melee enemies.Prioritize the storm imps, as you can easily dodge the abilities of the fire/ice imps.When clearing the teleportation version of the final floor, pick a side without towers, turrets and the least storm imps. Move in that direction using your abilities to clear an area. Strafe dodge and use your range to eliminate the other enemies.In the final room with lava try and move in one of the diagonal directions as it will only require two turns in lava, then sprint to the pillars for cover.Ice Caves:[]If you cleared the sewers or the arcane tower usually you don't need to do the ice caves.Tunnel shot the wolves, power shot the penguins and kite the polar bears.Ice is unstable terrain even for large creatures like polar bears.There are two fires per level, if you haven't found one by 7 cold I backtrack to previous floor, earlier if it is far from the entrance.Core:[]If you cleared the sewers or the arcane tower usually you don't need to do the core.Prioritize killing the fire elementals with power shot.Strafe dodging is very effective on all enemies.Tunnel shot bat swarms to clear them out quicker, but do not panic if swarmed, just strafe dodge.Play it carefully, slowly clear around you.If you're taking too much damage just leave.A tip for side dungeons: If you are at the lowest floor it counts as 4 floors deeper then where you are in the main dungeon. This is a great time to use your acquirement scrolls as the deeper you are the higher the enchant levels.General Tips[]Unstable ground is your friend, particularly with a weak bow. Learn to always kite enemies to unstable ground.Projectiles are useful. They can be used with both power shot and tunnel shot, or even just thrown normally. Use them to quickly clear out priority enemies or make a safe path to retreat to.Tunnel shot can be aimed at enemies that it will not hit, which can lead to wasted shots. Use a normal attack to target enemies first to see if tunnel shot can hit. Learn what angles to aim at to hit the most enemies. On diagonals you can often hit more then you think.Sprint is a great way to re-position to use tunnel shot better. Be careful when using it aggressively, as it is also your main escape tool.Crystal Golems are not a problem for a ranger. Unequip your bow, select a melee weapon if you have one, and strafe dodge/attack them to death. Do be careful of a reflected tunnel shot, it can easily 1 shot you. Alternatively, just try and throw bombs at them, kite them into fire shrooms or run around them. It is also ideal if Vault of Yendor 16 has a lava lake as you can just run around it while the golem takes damage. Use Power Shot and Tunnel Shot all the time, and use Power Shot to quickly take out ranged enemies/mages that will be a problem. The cooldowns will easily reset before you reach the next fight.If you skip side dungeons, wish for scrolls and head straight for Yendor when you have enough gear this strategy reliably wins in 10-20min. This strategy is aimed at win streaking. After you learn the class this strategy should easily achieve an average time of 30min while playing it safe. If you have any suggestions about playing ranger, or any tips or idea about the game either add it to the wiki or come join us on the discord. Random595
